The Armidale Climate and Health project seeks to build community connections and resilience in the face of climate change. We will run six workshops and hold a small festival alongside Black Gully. It is funded by an Increasing Resilience to Climate Change Grant from AdaptNSW.

We are asking the question: *How can we improve our communities' health, look after the environment and put Indigenous knowledge at the centre?

The project is facilitated by Dr Sujata Allan (MBBS) and Dr Jennifer Hamilton (PhD). Sujata works at Armajun Aboriginal Health Service and Jen at UNE. The project coordinator is Shannon Smith, a performer who uses traditional Aboriginal dance as her fortè to break down barriers and educate people. We are also guided by Uncle Steve Widders, proud Anaiwan elder. Collaborators include Armajun Aboriginal Health Service, Sustainable Living Armidale and UNE as well as many individuals and community leaders.
